

HALLEY'S COMET OFF ITS SCHEDULE

Is Still in Its Place in the East and Tail Has Not Yet Got Close
Enough to Swish Us

ASTRONOMERS MADE A MISCALCULATION

Earth May Not Pass Through the Tail of the Fiery Wanderer Until Tomorrow Says Savant

Mount Wilson, Cal., May 19.—It was announced at the Carnegie observatory today that Halley's comet passed the sun on schedule time last evening and the sun arose this morning ahead of the nucleus of the wanderer. The earth is close to the nearer wall of the tail and likely to enter it any moment, according to an official statement.

Princeton, N. J., May 19.—Prof. Henry Norris Russell, of the astronomical department of Princeton university, in a signed statement to the Associated Press today, declared that, basing his calculations on the width of the comet's tail early today, as compared with previous mornings, the earth was not near enough to pass through the tail of the comet this morning, but very likely it will do so some time tonight. The statement says: "At 3 a. m. today the sky was brilliantly clear without a trace of moonlight or dawn. The comet's tail was conspicuous in the east as a band of light about eight degrees wide, quite straight and about as bright as the fainter branch of the Milky way between Cygnus and Aquila. Its central line passed about midway between the stars Alpha and Gamma Pegasi and its end was lost in the Milky way in Aquila."

"No trace of the tail could be detected beyond the Milky way and no illumination could be seen in the western sky in spite of careful search under very favorable conditions. The tail was apparently between two and three times as wide as on the morning of Tuesday, May 17. If its real breadth has not changed it was far from us on the 19th as it was two days before—which would make the time of the earth's passage through it come on the morning of the 20th."

SOME OTHER OPINIONS.

Williams Bay, Wis., May 19.—Shattering all scientific calculations and puzzling learned astronomers, who declared they made sure of the unprecedented phenomena with repeated observations here before daybreak this morning, the glowing tail of Halley's comet appeared in the eastern sky today at a time when a world's scientific authorities had agreed it would be in the west.

Such eminent astronomers as Prof. S. A. Mitchell, of Columbia university, New York; Prof. Edwin B. Frost, head of the Yerkes observatory staff, and Prof. Edward Barnard, of the University of Chicago, witnessed the startling fan of light in the east and all agreed that it was the comet's tail. No adequate explanation, however, is forthcoming.

Three Possible Explanations.
Prof. Mitchell, Prof. Frost and Prof. Barnard say that any one of the following three explanations may be right:

1. The curvature of the comet's tail first discovered, and noted by Prof. Barnard on Tuesday night may have developed to a wholly unexpected degree, while the head of the comet has passed the earth on schedule.

2. Like Borelli's comet of 1903, Halley's comet may have ceased its tail-making activity, cutting off the glowing fan that is now puzzling the scientists.

3. It is possible that all calculations are wrong and that the comet has not yet passed the earth. As nearly as could be computed, the period of the appearance of the comet's tail in the east extended from 10:30 o'clock Wednesday night to 2:30 o'clock Wednesday morning. It was still plainly visible at a time when the astronomers were confident the earth would have passed completely through the tail.

Prof. Frost's Statement.
After leaving his telescope at daybreak, Prof. Frost issued the following statement:

"Greater than all the theories and all the computations are the facts. And the fact is that the tail of Halley's comet has been appearing in the east in practically the same position as it appeared yesterday morning. There is no question about that. The tail, which glowed from the horizon close to the Milky way, has not yet passed across the earth. That is a certainty. In addition, it is also certain that there is no material diminution in the size of this tail as compared with the tail of the day before."

"We are confident that the calculations for the passage of the head of the comet between the sun and the earth are correct. Unquestioned astronomical authorities, working independently of each other, in all parts of the world, arrived at these calculations, which have been corrected in detail ever since the comet passed Venus on May 2.

"We are also confident that the head of the comet made the transit as per schedule. But the mystery of the appearance of the tail in the east this morning is the great puzzle. It cannot be explained satisfactorily at this time."

COMET'S TAIL BADLY BENT.

Princeton, N. H., May 19.—The earth did not plunge through the tail of Halley's comet at the time scheduled by astronomers, according to Prof. Henry Norris Russell, of Princeton, and Seacomb Daniel, the discoverer of three comets, but was several hours late in making the journey. This failure of the comet to be on time, they said today, was due to the fact that the tail had developed a pronounced curve and it was long after sun-up in this section of the country before the passage of the earth through the comet's appendage.

Prof. Russell at 2:45 a. m. noticed a distinct streak of light in the east that resembled the Milky way. He then came to the conclusion that the earth had not passed through the comet's tail because the tail was curved away from us and that the sun would be well above the horizon when the passage was made. At that time, he said, the head of the comet had passed the disc of the sun and was well on the other side of the sun.

Shortly after 3 a. m. the light in the east disappeared and Prof. Russell said it was possible for the inhabitants of Hawaii and possibly the astronomers at the Lick observatory in California to detect in the darkness of the passage through the tail. Prof. Russell added that the reason why most astronomers had not been able to tell that the tail was curved was because they had been looking at the tail endwise. Mr. Daniel said today that he also noticed the light in the east shortly before 3 a. m. and also suggested that the earth had not passed through the tail of the comet because of the curvature of the appendage. He expressed the belief that the passing of the earth through the tail would make the comet move pronounced. The time at which the earth made the passage, he said, could not be ascertained at Princeton, because the arch of the curve was not known there.

Mr. Daniel explained that it was not unusual for comet tails to be curved and called attention to the fact that the comet of January, 1910, had a distinct curved tail.

COMET INCIDENTS IN GOTHAM.

New York, May 19.—A child of nine, gazing for the comet through a broken bottle, the best telescope she had, was shot during a street battle last night in Little Italy. Her spine was shattered and she will die. No arrests were made.

In another street in the same quarter, 600 Italians fell to their prayers when they saw bearing down on them from the heavens a bright ball of flame. There was a panic in which many were trampled under the supposed aerolite exploded into small fragments. Somebody had been unlucky enough on this of all nights, to send up a fire balloon.

In the Standard Oil works at Bayonne, N. J., the unskilled laborers mainly Italians, quit work for the day in a body and spent most of their time in church.

There was an impressive demonstration in front of old St. Patrick's Cathedral, now a parish church in the Italian quarter, with which the police dealt tactfully. Down the street came 200 little folk in white dresses chanting a litany. Behind them, intoning supplications in deeper voice, paced their elders. The police inquired what it was all about, and one of the elders silently pointed to so much of the western sky as could be seen above the roofs of the tenement houses.

Slowly the procession filed into the church yard and knelt on the grass. The reserves were called out and going from one to another they persuaded the children to leave their prayers for their beds. The presence of the police seemed to re-assure them and many fell asleep against blue shoulders as they were carried gently away.

WAS IN SAME POSITION.

Mount Wilson Observatory, Pasadena, Cal., May 19.—At 2 o'clock this morning, Pacific coast time, Prof. E. A. Fah, who has conducted the observations of Halley's comet during the night, made the following statement:

"The tail of Halley's comet is this morning apparently in the same position as it was yesterday morning."

Startling Sermon for the Opening of Assembly in Atlantic City.

Atlantic City, N. J., May 19.—"I cannot be a pessimist while God is in His heaven; but I declare to you that, discredited the muckrakers and the mock reformers as we will, the times are out of joint," said the Rev. Dr. James M. Barkley, of Detroit, today in his sermon opening the 122nd general assembly of the Presbyterian church on the steel pier here.

"If virtues are virtue," continued the retiring moderator, "evils are gigantic." "Twin sins that threaten the very existence of this Christian nation are the vulgar race for gain and the rotting sin of social vices."

Opening of Assembly.
With a very large attendance at commissioners and visitors the 122nd general assembly of the Presbyterian church was formally opened today in Music hall on the steel pier.

Beautiful spring weather favored the nearly one thousand commissioners as they paraded the famous board walk to the pier.

Many questions of vital importance to the church will come up during the ten days' session, but for the time being the subject that is agitating the minds of the commissioner is the election of a moderator. This is always the first real business of the general assembly and the election is scheduled for this afternoon. There are many candidates in the field from all parts of the country. The eastern delegates are making a determined contest, and predictions are being made that the honor will fall to an eastern man.

Rev. Dr. George Alexander, pastor of the University Place church, New York, appears to be leading.

The convention was formally opened at 11 a. m. with the usual annual sermon by the retiring moderator, Rev. James M. Barkley, D. D. of Detroit.

Washington, May 19.—Assistant Attorney General Lawler had only the "natural prejudice anyone would have in favor of an honest man as against a dishonest one," when he wrote the memorandum upon which was based President Taft's letter exonerating Secretary of the Interior Ballinger and dismissing Louis R. Glavis from the public land service.

This was Lawler's statement to the Ballinger-Pinchot investigation committee today.

Has Cause Against Glavis.
Questioned by Attorney Brandeis for the "prosecution" of Ballinger, Lawler added that when he was United States attorney for the southern district of California three years ago Glavis had protested that he was incompetent to conduct some land fraud cases.

The department of justice had made an investigation and he had been permitted to go on with the cases, which he brought to a successful conclusion, he said.

"Then you did have reason to be prejudiced against Glavis," suggested Brandeis.

"I had no prejudice. I knew he was absolutely untruthful."

"Don't you think that opinion disqualified you to write a letter as if you were president?"

"It was not an opinion, but a demonstration."

PACKAGE WORTH $30,000 STOLEN

Clever Robbery at Pennsylvania Station in Oil City, Pa.

AGENT LEFT CASH WITHOUT A GUARD

When He Returned Money
Had Disappeared—No
Clue Disclosed.

Oil City, Pa., May 19.—Three packages of money containing $32,024.21 were stolen from the Pennsylvania depot here at 2:30 o'clock this morning while John J. Truby, the station agent, was loading baggage onto a Buffalo train. The money was being shipped by the Adams Express company to Philadelphia.

The railroad detectives investigating the robbery are of the opinion that the theft was the work of one man who knew that the money was in the station and who knew just where it was.

Money Turned Over from Pay Car.
The Pennsylvania railroad pay car arrived in Oil City late last night and turned over to the day station agent three packages of money wrapped in manila paper containing $32,024.21, which were received for in the name of the Adams Express company. The money was consigned to the treasurer's office of the Pennsylvania railroad in Philadelphia.

The packages were too bulky for storage in the small station safe and Night Agent Truby placed them under a sack behind the ticket counter.

There was no one in the station for a few minutes just prior to the theft.

When the Robbery Took Place.
At 2:30 o'clock this morning a Buffalo-bound Pennsylvania train pulled into the station and Truby stepped out on the platform, closing the office door behind him. The door is self-locking. While about two hundred feet from the station office Truby saw by the light on the station platform lamp that the office door was not closed. Hurrying back he discovered that the three packages of money were missing.

A search of the train and vicinity of the station was made with no results. Express company and railroad detectives arrived here this morning.

London, May 19.—Emperor William arrived in London today. At Victoria station the emperor was welcomed by King George, the duke of Cornwall, the duke of Connaught, Prince Henry of Prussia, and others of the royal family and diplomats.

The greetings of the monarch was most affectionate. From his cousin the emperor turned to the young duke of Cornwall and kissed him on both cheeks.

As the emperor and King George drove to Buckingham palace great crowds in the streets exhibited lively interest in the German ruler. The men raised their hats and the women waved their handkerchiefs as the royal carriage passed. Arriving at the palace the emperor was taken at once to the apartments of Queen Mother Alexandra.

Kaiser Kneels at Bier.
This afternoon Emperor William took occasion to pay a private tribute to the memory of his uncle, the late monarch. Accompanied by King George and their suites, he went to Westminster hall, where thousands of all classes were passing the bier. The emperor approached the casket and remained before it for some minutes.

Having placed upon the casket a magnificent wreath, he knelt by the catafalque and for a few moments was engaged in prayer. Upon rising to his feet his majesty turned to King George, who knelt with his cousin before the bier, and held out both hands, which the other grasped. Both monarchs were visibly affected.

Mr. Roosevelt spent the morning writing and reading. This afternoon he called upon Emperor William at Buckingham palace.

A WREATH OF FLOWERS.
Windsor, England, May 19.—The lawn adjoining St. George's chapel from the tomb where the body of King Edward will be sepulchred tomorrow presented today the appearance of a huge flower shop so great was the wealth of wreaths received from all parts of the world. Truck loads of floral offerings arrived at the castle throughout the day. Tributes in every conceivable form, from a cross of orchids measuring fourteen by seven feet and sent by the sultan of Zanzibar to a tiny bunch of wild flowers from some workman's home covered the place in a wonderful profusion of color. The tribute of President Taft was a wreath of palm leaves and a child entwined with an American flag of silk. Mr. Roosevelt sent a wreath of white orchids. There also were wreaths from the American embassy and Mrs. Reid, the wife of the American ambassador.

LAUD FORT WAYNE AND SAY GOOD-BYE

Utica Business Men Continue Trip After Spending Night in City.

HERE IN COURSE OF 2,000-MILE JOURNEY

Pick Up Information in Long Trolley Trip to Make Utica Better.

Generous in their expressions of admiration for many features of Fort Wayne, and of their appreciation of its hospitality, Utica, N. Y., business men at 10:40 o'clock this morning resumed the 2,000-mile trip by trolley which they are making to study municipal problems and to learn how other cities are prospering. The trolley tourists had spent the night in Fort Wayne, had been given an auto tour about the city and an informal entertainment at the Commercial club house, and they left in their special car over the Ohio Electric railway for Toledo, making the noonday stop at Lima, where they were to be the guests of Lima business men at a luncheon.

Naturally the court house came in for the major share of the compliments of the visitors in Fort Wayne, but there was much expression of admiration, also, for other public buildings, for the Anthony hotel, for the parks, the handsome homes, the big manufacturing institutions and for the generally substantial and progressive appearance of the city. "Fort Wayne is just about the size of Utica," said one of the gentlemen, "and it is therefore especially interesting to us to see the manner in which the city has met problems which are very much like our own."

Traveling in Style.
Twenty-one members comprise the party which started May 10 on its 2,000-mile journey through Pennsylvania, Ohio, Indiana and Kentucky by trolley line, traveling in the handsome special car of C. Loomis Adams, general manager of the Onondaga Ray company, who acted as official pilot for the expedition. Mr. Allen had placed the gilded inscription, "Utica, N. Y., Electric Railway Tour," along either side of the car, which was well equipped for the comfort of the tourists.

Each of them wore a red button bearing the name of their home city, and from the moment of their arrival they insisted that everybody with whom they came in contact should wear the same insignia. Aside from this there was no "booming" of Utica. Instead, it was made plain that what the visitors desired was to learn, not to exploit.

A wide diversity of business and professional life was represented. There was a physician, an undertaker, several merchants, a number of manufacturers, an attorney or two and a few newspaper men mingling with some retired capitalists, and all of them apparently enjoying every minute of the trip.

Indianapolis, May 19.—Plans for the campaign this fall were talked over in a general way at a conference today attended by the members of the republican state committee, the executive committee and candidates on the state ticket. It was the first meeting of the state committee and the candidates since the republican state convention and State Chairman Edwin M. Lee said he wanted to get the candidates and the different committees together for exchange of ideas.

"The conference is not for any specific purpose," said Chairman Lee. "It is more like an old-time Methodist experience meeting. I want to hear from the different leaders over the state as to the existing conditions."

Mr. Lee said that the question of assessing candidates was not considered. This matter, he said, would be taken up later.

The Courts.

Edith Eckles says in a divorce complaint filed in the circuit court today that following the birth of one of her children she was removed to a hospital and that when she was ready to be removed her husband declined to pay her bills or to provide a home for her and that she went to live with her parents and that friends and relatives paid for the care she received at the hospital.

She wants the custody of one of her two children and says that she is ill now and can not care for the other. It is alleged that he is working and earning $75 a month and she asks $500 alimony and $15 a month for the support of the child. J. Fred France is her attorney.

Ira Ormspach, whose troubles with his wife were recently taken to the city court, asks a divorce from Pearl Ormspach and says she calls him bad names, associates with men of bad repute and visits their rooms and drinks with them. She is also accused of having men visit her home in the absence of her husband. Phil B. Colerick filed the suit.

Bills presented by the assessors and their deputies for services rendered between March 1 and May 15, which include the Sundays, were held up yesterday by the county commissioners and Judge O'Rourke will be asked to decide whether they are entitled to fees only for the days on which they actually work or whether the same rate they obtain on working days holds good for Sundays when they did no work.

Will Is Probated.
Under the will of Pauline Luegring $1,300 is left as a trust fund to be used in maintaining her daughter, Ruth Marguerite, at St. Augustine's academy until she is seventeen; her household effects are bequeathed to a daughter, Frances Mary Arp, and within a year her property is to be sold and the proceeds divided between the two daughters named and Arthur Augustus, Anthony Luegring and Marvin Jacob Luegring. J. C. Huguenard is appointed executor of the will and instructed to keep the sons' shares of the estate until they are 25 years old.

Witness Overcome.
Mrs. Martha Jackson, one of the witnesses in the Steffen case on trial in the circuit court, had an attack of heart trouble in the court room this morning and was in a serious condition for a short time.

FINE RESULTS FROM FIRST TEST OF ANAESTHETIC

Nitrous Oxide and Oxygen in Combination Used by Dr. Duemling.

Excellent results attended the first local test of a combination of nitrous oxide and oxygen as an anaesthetic in surgical operations made at the Lutheran hospital in this city today by Dr. H. A. Duemling. It was used in two cases of major operations, the patients being Miss Beeson, of Montana, and Mrs. Louise Barnes, of Hillsboro, New Mexico.

It would appear that the combination has many advantages over ether, which has been used as an anaesthetic almost exclusively by surgeons for many years. The patients today yielded more quickly to its influence than to the usual anaesthetic, and there were no unfavorable manifestations involving either the heart or the lungs. Recovery from the unconscious state, too, was much more rapid, and there was little or no nausea following its use. In fact, but a few minutes after the surgeon had completed his work served to entirely revive the patients and Dr. Duemling has a very high opinion of the combination as an anaesthetic in surgical cases.

The discovery is not a new one, for nitrous oxide is what has been for years used by many dentists and it is commonly known as "laughing gas." The idea of combining it with oxygen for longer periods of anaesthesia is said to have originated some years ago with a Chicago surgeon, but it was not until recently that the anaesthetic was given a trial in eastern hospitals. Dr. Duemling, who saw it used there in a number of instances, was much impressed with it. Several weeks ago he sent Miss Fischer, his surgical nurse, to a Cleveland hospital, where she spent some time familiarizing herself with the method of administering and of working with the anaesthetic which promises to soon come into general use. Miss Fischer administered the anaesthetic in the Fort Wayne cases today in which it proved so successful.

PONCE DE LEON ON DEAD TRIAL FOR YOUTH FOUNT

Prof. Flynn Will, Tonight
Tell Secret of Keeping Young.

Old Ponce De Leon four centuries ago came across the Atlantic hunting the fountain of eternal youth. The hoary Spaniard was in search of a real fountain of real water and expected to find it in Florida. He died in his quest. If he had met up with Prof. W. Earl Flynn perhaps the history of the western hemisphere would have some kinks it hasn't got.

"How to Train to Keep Young" has a rather alluring sound, both to the fellow who still has some youth to keep and the other fellow who would like to get back some of his that has fled. It will be the subject of Prof. Flynn's lecture at the First M. E. church this evening. There will be a message for the schoolboy and for the old man. Miss Bosworth, Prof. Flynn's assistant, will take part. Those who have a wish to join the classes can yet do so today and receive the full course of instruction.

In beginning his talk last night the health evangelist announced that "Flynn is dead. Forget him." He desired to have his pupils understand that he must not be any part of the equation. He wants the minds of those he teaches centered on themselves; to appreciate that Flynn is doing nothing for them, but merely telling them what to do. There was immediate appreciation of this philosophy, and those present in the audience kept it in mind. There was some music and Prof. Flynn showed what he means by congestion of the feet and how the propulsive power of thought reaches clear to the toes.

He declined absolutely to give any food prescriptions for individual cases though in many cases asked to do so. He would go no further than to discuss food values and their relations to nerves, muscle, bone, blood and brain. Exercise, he declared, amounted to nothing. It was merely the vehicle for conveying thought to the different parts of the body. That was what should be kept in mind in taking exercise. This he illustrated with great clearness in many specific instances.

Miss Bosworth's Lecture.

Mothers and older sisters, aunts and cousins, and the young girls sprinkled through the large assembly of women who heard Miss Eva Bosworth lecture at the First M. E. church yesterday afternoon at 4 o'clock, formed one of the most interested companies of the gentle sex ever gathered in this city. It was a large audience, one that filled the auditorium and when at 5:30 o'clock Prof. Flynn joined Miss Bosworth to help give some of the exercises used in this health campaign, they all remained as eager to see as they had been willing to hear. And they all left with something to think about, something to help them do something to do. Miss Bosworth spoke in plain language, with an easy, unpretentious twinkle, to mislead her listeners from the facts she was giving.

Miss Bosworth made a strong plea for the children and her appeal to mothers to train their children in self-knowledge, self-reverence and self-control made a strong impression. She urged that girls be allowed to romp and play and not be kept in the house at fancy work for fear of marring their faces and being unattractive. Regular hours of sleep, plain food, no eating of sweets between meals and air, and more out of door air, loose clothing, together with wholesome talk, the reading of wholesome literature not of a character to excite the nervous system, and no suggestions as to the boys or girls having "beaus" or "sweethearts" are the things which train the children to become fit to assume the more serious relations in life. As regards food Miss Bosworth declared that when a child is not hungry enough between meals or at the time to eat fruit or plain bread and butter, that he or she should not be fed cake or other sweets. Miss Bosworth deplored the attitude of many mothers in keeping their children ignorant of things they ought to know and are bound to find out in later life, many times in a manner that in itself becomes an irreparable injury to the mind if not the body of the child. Ignorance and not depravity is the cause of many illnesses and much suffering and for which ignorance the parents may be blamed. Miss Bosworth urged the importance of parents knowing what their children know and think. The exercises given in illustration were remarkably interesting and charts were shown that the audience might better understand the conditions which cause suffering and the relation of the exercises to the cause and the result which will follow the exercise. Miss Bosworth is a trained nurse and she entered this work of physical exercise after undergoing two serious surgical operations. The entire lecture was one of much encouragement and helpfulness.

MAY BE PUT OUT OF BUSINESS.

Extraction of Soakage From Old
Spirits Barrels is Taxable.

Washington, May 18.—Establishments in various large cities of the country engaged in the extraction of soakage from the staves of empty barrels that formerly contained spirits, are in danger of being put out of business if a decision announced today by Commissioner Cabell, of the internal revenue bureau, be upheld. The commissioner does not prohibit the business entirely, but the restrictions imposed are said to be such as to make its continuation practically impossible. Affirmative proof is to be furnished the internal revenue office as to the tax payments on spirits contained in the staves of each package to be treated by the soakage process.

NUMBER OF VICTIMS A OF EXPLOSION FIFTY

Death List in Cuban Catastrophe is Smaller Than Reported.

Havana, May 19.—Until the ruins have been more thoroughly examined it will not be known positively how many lives were lost when the rural guards barracks in the city of Pinar del Rio was demolished by an explosion of dynamite late yesterday. There is reason, however, for the hope that the fatalities did not exceed fifty. The wounded will number more than one hundred, it is believed. It is almost certain that the explosion resulted from the accidental fall of a case of dynamite from the hands of an employee of the public works department who, with others was loading upon wagons 72 cases of the explosive which were to be transferred from the barracks to the government magazine in the city.

Family Wiped Out.
Among the bodies recovered were those of Captain Alfredo Ravenna, of the rural guards, his wife and three children. With the exception of a daughter, Graciella, the whole family perished with the destruction of their home. Andrea, daughter of E. Gomez, the Spanish consul at Pinar del Rio, could not be found today, and it is believed that she was killed. The quantity of dynamite exploded was nearly three tons. This morning 23 bodies have been recovered and forty injured persons have been taken to the hospital.

The barracks was a massive building of Spanish construction and occupied an eminence in the outskirts of the city to the north. During the late intervention it was the headquarters of Col. Parker's regiment, the Eleventh cavalry. Adjacent to the barracks was a long row of officers' quarters.

Orders Dynamite Removed.
Recently the barracks was occupied by the public works department and four troops of rural cavalry. In consequence of the alarm over race disturbances the government ordered all deposits of dynamite in the vicinity of the construction of contractors for road construction and other public works to be removed to the barracks for safe keeping.

Yesterday afternoon the work of removing the dynamite from the barracks for shipment to the government magazine in Havana was begun by employees of the public works department, assisted by rural guards.

They were engaged in loading cases of the dynamite on wagons when a terrific explosion occurred, instantly followed by another, shattering the central court in which the work was going on with dead and wounded. The barracks building was destroyed, the adjacent row of officers' quarters demolished, and the whole northern section of the city deluged with fragments of masonry.

WOMAN'S GREAT TRIUMPH.

Miss Meredith Chosen Election Commissioner in Denver.

Denver, Col., May 19.—With returns from only two of the 211 voting precincts of the city missing, Miss Ella Meredith, a well known club woman leads in the race for election commissioner, her total of 20,887 topping the totals of her seven nearest competitors. She is the first woman elected to office in the city of Denver. Miss Meredith ran on the citizens ticket, having been named to fill a vacancy caused by the withdrawal of the regular nominee. Indications point to the election of Mauff, citizens, and Petrie, democratic, to the election commission with Miss Meredith. Practically complete count also shows that the initiative and referendum and recall charter amendments have been adopted.

The capital stock of $100,000 has been fully subscribed, and it is expected that the new company will get its factory in operation very shortly. The auto axle which will be manufactured by the company has been given a severely thorough test within the past few months, and it has demonstrated its efficiency.

WILL ERECT SUBURBAN HOMES.

A. Z. Polhamus and S. B. Bechtel Purchase Farm South of City.

Capt. Isaac D'Isay today closed the deal for the sale of the Heinrich Wiebke farm of forty acres, on South Broadway, to A. Z. Polhamus, general manager, and S. B. Bechtel, assistant general manager of the S. F. Bowser & Co. works. The consideration was $15,000. The farm lies along the St. Mary's river immediately south of the city, and will be an ideal location for the handsome suburban homes which Mr. Polhamus and Mr. Bechtel will erect there.

Mr. Polhamus takes the east half of the tract and Mr. Bechtel the west half. Mr. Polhamus expects to build during the coming summer.

SUPPOSED TO BE INCENDIARY.

A small blaze in the two-story frame barn of M. E. Scherer, 1247 Maumenee avenue, at 8:21 o'clock last night is supposed to be of incendiary origin. When discovered a quantity of hay in one corner of the barn was burning. It was quickly extinguished without loss. A short time before a man, whose identity is unknown, was seen to leave the barn.

WILL RECEIVE BIDS.

At the regular meeting of the board of public works tonight bids will be received for cement sidewalks on Runnion avenue and Howell street and for a sewer in Forest park.

A GREAT EVENT FOR CATHOLICISM IN AMERICA

Six Bishops are Consecrated at Once in St. Louis.

St. Paul, May 19.—Significant of the growth of Catholicism in the new world the ceremony performed by Archbishop Ireland in St. Paul today, by which for the first time since the church came to America six bishops were consecrated simultaneously.

These six new bishops of St. Paul province received their commission at the hands of their own venerable metropolitan, assisted by two of his remaining bishops—in the chapel of St. Paul seminary, almost precisely at the spot where Father Louis Hennepin, the first Christian missionary to the region of the future province, landed on the bank of the Mississippi, "a league below the falls of St. Anthony," 236 years ago. The archbishop, his nine bishops and six hundred priests out of nine hundred now in the province, represented a Catholic population of six hundred thousand souls, where at the time the first bishop of St. Paul was consecrated, sixty years before, there had been two priests only and perhaps one thousand members of the church. The consecrator himself and the preacher of the consecration sermon, Bishop Thomas O'Gorman, of Sioux Falls, were the first two seminarians of the diocese of St. Paul chosen from among the boys of the parish school by Bishop Crean, first bishop of St. Paul. They were conducting today an ecclesiastical ceremony of first magnitude and of national importance in the chapel of the St. Paul seminary, before the governor of the state and his staff, six hundred priests, fifty bishops, 150 seminarians and the archbishops Diomedes Falcoipio, apostolic delegate to the United States.

The ceremony took place on the grounds and in the chapel of St. Paul's seminary on the high bluff at the western limits of St. Paul, overlooking the Mississippi river.

These Consecrated.

The bishops consecrated were:
Rev. James O'Reilly, of Minneapolis, bishop of Fargo, N. D.

Rev. John J. Lawler, Cathedral of St. Paul, auxiliary bishop of the archdiocese of St. Paul.

Rev. Patrick R. Heffron, rector of St. Paul's seminary, bishop of Winona, Minn.

Rev. Timothy Corbett, of Duluth, bishop of Crookston, Minn.

Rev. Vincent Wehrle, of the Benedictine order and abbot of the monastery at Richardson, N. D.; bishop of Bismarck, N. D.

Rev. Joseph F. Busch, head of the missionary band in the archdiocese of St. Paul, bishop of Lead, S. D. The event of great moment in the Catholic church, it is said by ecclesiastics to have been overshadowed but once in modern times, when the pope himself consecrated fourteen new French bishops, and in the United States, the only ceremony which approximated it in significance was when Archbishop Ireland consecrated Bishops Shanley, McGuckick and Cotter at the same time.

If so, are in the tail at all it is probably, but the edge. So far our observations have shown no special aurora lights nor have any meteors been observed.

MAY NOT TOUCH TAIL AT ALL.

San Jose, Cal., May 19.—According to Dr. Campbell, of the Lick observatory, there is a possibility that the earth may not pass through the comet's tail after all. In a statement issued early today he said:

"The tail was visible as soon as the moon set. It is probable that we shall miss passing through the tail tonight because it is lagging by several million miles. The comet's orbit is inclined to an angle with the earth's orbit and it is probable we shall not pass through the tail at all.

Washington, May 19.—Prof. Asaph Hall, of the naval observatory, said at 9 o'clock this morning that the earth would not pass through the tail of Halley's comet until some time today.

TRYING TO MAKE A DEAL ON RAIL MEASURE

Senate Democrats Figure on Getting Statehood Bills
Through.

Washington, May 19.—Negotiations between the regular republicans and democrats regarding the railroad bill were in progress when the senate convened today on practically the same basis as at the time of adjournment last night, except that the statehood question was figuring more prominently today than it did yesterday.

Senators Hughes and Bailey were pressing the necessity for the passage of the statehood bill as a consideration for any concessions that might be made on the railroad measure and the democrats generally were disposed to urge that the statehood bills should be taken up next after the disposal of the pending measure. Some republicans were not willing to go so far and it was evident that some deal would be necessary to complete the agreement.

When the bill was taken up Mr. Cummins presented his amendment to the section of the bill regulating rates requiring approval by the interstate commerce commission of all increases in rates before they take effect. The Iowa senator spoke at length in support of it.

RAIL BILL GAINS A STEP.

Washington, May 19.—The senate yesterday amended and accepted the house provision of the railroad bill which places the defense of suits before the interstate commerce commission in the hands of the commission general, but permits the commission and shippers to intervene and even to continue the suit in case the attorney general withdraws.

The period during which rates of railroad companies may be suspended by the commission was extended from 60 to 120 days on motion of Mr. Aldrich.

As offered by Mr. Smith, of Michigan, the provision was so modified as to permit ample notice to the commission and he accepted afterward the suggestion from Mr. Hughes, of Colorado, which permits the intervention of shippers or other parties at interest, and not only prohibits the attorney general from discontinuing such cases without notice to the intervenors, but authorizes them to proceed with the case even after the attorney general may have withdrawn it.

Ten Republicans in Negative.

The vote on this combined proposition of the Michigan republican and the Colorado democrat stood 40 to 23. Thirty-seven of the affirmative votes were cast by republicans and the other three by Senators Fletcher, Hughes and McNary, democrats. Ten of the negative votes were by republicans, as follows: Beveridge, Borah, Bourns, Brewster, Burkett, Clapp, Cummins, Dixon, Dooliver and La Follette.

The success of the Smith-Hughes provision was due to the adoption of the house section, which is generally conceded to be more favorable to shippers than was the provision in the original administration bill.

Without some concession it would have been impossible to get any democratic votes and a considerably larger number of republicans would have been lost. Until the change was made there was a fair prospect for the defeat of the original provision and for the success of the Cummins amendment substituting the interstate commerce commission for the government as the defendant in these cases.

The amendment extending from 60 to 120 days the period during which the interstate commerce commission may suspend for investigation any new rates or classifications made by railroad companies also was a concession in the interest of the shippers and was accepted without division and without debate.

NEWS OF FORT WAYNE'S NEIGHBORS

THE DUNKARDS AT WINONA LAKE

Their Conference Will Bring Great Crowd—Homes Wanted for 50,000 Visitors.

Winona Lake, Ind., May 19.—By far the largest gathering ever held at Winona Lake will be that of the Dunkards, as they are familiarly known, which will convene here on June 1 and continue for several days. The great crowd being held here during Saturday and Sunday, June 4 and 5, when it is said 50,000 people will be here, and four is expressed that Winona and Warsaw will not be able to find sleeping accommodations for them. It will be necessary for Warsaw people to open their homes for them and unless this is done liberally it is thought that several thousand visitors will be compelled to walk the streets unable to find places in which to sleep.

The legal name of the church is the "Church of the Brethren," and the event will be their annual conference, which continues from June 1 to 9. L. M. Neher, the secretary of the lodging committee, in his appeal to the citizens of Warsaw for homes, says: "The attendance at our annual meetings has been as high as 40,000 persons, and many think the meeting at Winona will be the largest ever held. We believe that not less than 15,000 will arrive on Saturday, June 4. Several thousands will have arrived previously on June 1, 2 and 3. It is probable that on Saturday night and Sunday night, June 4 and 5, from 15,000 to 20,000 strangers will be lodging at Winona and Warsaw. The crowd may be lessened some by Monday night, but the majority will likely remain until about Wednesday, and the conference is expected to close Thursday, June 9. The Dunkards are not asking for entertaining for these visitors. They will pay for all lodging and all meals furnished.

This conference should not be confounded with that of the Old Dunkard church, which has just concluded its meeting at Silver Lake.

THE MINING STOCK

WAS VALUELESS

Young Bluffton Farmer Sues to Recover Land He Traded for 125 Shares.

Bluffton, Ind., May 19.—Fraud is alleged in a suit which has been filed in the circuit court here by Arthur McCullick, a young farmer of Chester township, in this county. He names Clement H. Powell, of Pittsburg, Pa., as defendant, and alleges that Powell falsely misrepresented the value of mining stock traded to him in a deal for 20 acres of land in Chester township. He asks the court to rescind the execution of the deed by which the land was transferred to Powell and the records to show the land reconveyed to him, McCullick.

The allegation of McCullick is that Powell represented 125 shares of stock in the Predella Mining company to be worth $8 per share and that there was a market for it at that price and that he was able to sell the 125 shares at a valuation of $1,000 in the deal. In addition Powell paid him $300 and assumed a mortgage of $200. He asserts, however, that he has discovered that the 125 shares of Predella stock are practically valueless and that there is absolutely no sale for it at any price.

He alleges that he relied on Powell's representation that the stock was worth $8 per share and that he did not know until last Saturday, May 14, that the stock was valueless. He says that since Powell is in Pittsburg he has had no opportunity to tender back to Powell his $300, but he sets forth that he has now placed with the clerk of the court Powell's $300, where it is subject to use at any time he may want it. He alleges further that he has been told that Powell is trying to dispose of the land to an innocent purchaser, and that if this should be done, he, McCullick, would lose all recourse on Powell to have the wrong rectified.

Alleges Physician Did Not Properly Treat Broken Arm.

Bluffton, Ind., May 19.—John L. DeWitt, through his attorney, M. W. Walbert, yesterday filed a suit for damages against Dr. James W. McKinney and the Physicians' Defense company, of Fort Wayne, for damages amounting to $5,000. The suit came as a result of a fracture of the arm.

In his complaint he alleges that while following his usual avocation of painting he fell from a ladder and fracturing his left arm. Dr. McKinney he claimed, was called to attend the injury and that owing to negligence, the bones never knit well and as a result the arm is stiff and will be permanently stiff.

The defense company, mentioned in the complaint, is a company in which physicians insure themselves against suits of malpractice and which pay all judgments and costs. A strong fight is promised.

STILL SOME SUPERSTITION.

There is a serious as well as a comic side to the fears the approach of Halley's comet has aroused. Not all the misgiving and doleful fright has been among the ignorant and superstitious classes of southern negroes. Many white people of the more generally educated and enlightened north have read with alarm that the earth would pass through the comet's tail and have conjured out of that expected phenomenon the most direful anticipations. From time immemorial comets have wrought strange effects upon the human mind. In a long-gone time when the world was ignorant and the learned of those days knew little of the solar system and nothing of comets save that occasionally they appeared it was not strange men looked upon these vagrants of the sky with superstitious fear and saw in their appearances the most dreadful omens. There is not in this age and day the excuse of ignorance that there have been in the older times, but there have been exhibitions here and there over the country of the most grotesque and in some instances of the most pitiable fear. It simply shows that superstition still has a strong clutch on many of the well conditioned and supposedly enlightened. As a dire harbinger the comet remains a strong favorite and no doubt many of the fearful are greatly disappointed that nothing has happened to confirm their fears.

Most of the great railway systems have for the present at least averted wage strikes and such as have not already entered into agreement for increase of pay are expected to do so, within a short time. The rate of increase is not great, but it nevertheless is something. In the cases of the conductors and trainmen there has ensued something that closely approaches a standardization of wages in the great region east of the Mississippi river, a condition that never heretofore has had establishment. This situation ought to make the wage disputes for these classes of railway operatives vastly easier to settle in the future and no doubt this will prove to be the case.

Uncle Aldrich has been able once more to gather enough democrats under his kindly wing to force a bit of the administration railroad bill through the senate. Democratic help responds to his call in a curious fashion. When Aldrich is hard pressed the democrats vanish from the senate chamber and leave the regulars to work their will against the insurgents. That expedient has been resorted to more than once. The aid is thus given and the absentees are enabled to keep their records clean.

The next celestial phenomenon to which the notice of the country will doubtless be directed is doubtless to be an eclipse. It may come about, as Ballinger's resignation and it may be thrust on him, but all the astronomical signs point to the approaching phenomenon.

There was a crooked comet and it had a crooked tail; it laid a crooked course for a long and crooked sail. It caused some crooked guessing and a lot of crooked fears for many crooked people who believed the crooked seers.

The chief promoters of the Back From Elba club are its enemies. Nothing could better inflame the Roosevelt boom than the support that is given the Ballinger cause.

Was an egregious miscalculation. Hadn't got near the comet's tail last night. The worst may happen to-night.

Comet got its tail bent; otherwise no one can tell what would have happened.

A STARTLING STATEMENT.

Editor Sentinel:

Greater New York has gone on increasing its debt until its credit is visibly effected, and in order to sell new issues of bonds it has been forced to increase its interest rate to 4 1/2 per cent. It now owes some seven hundred millions of dollars, nearly as much as the interest bearing debt of the United States government. A financial writer in New York, recently discussing the question, asserted there was no reason whatever for distrusting the credit of the city. New York, he asserted, owned one piece of property worth more than the entire city debt. "Turn over to me," he said, "the Central park and I will pay every dollar of its obligations." And yet as young a man as I am I can remember when I was a boy in New York that the city purchased the ground now comprising the Central park for a mere song of its present value. Within not so many years from now the park properties Fort Wayne has already acquired would bring a sum sufficient to take care of the more than half a million dollars which constitute our city debt.

Dunkards Challenge Use of Automobiles and Phones.

Wabash, Ind., May 19.—Three important questions discussed at the annual meeting of the Old Order German Baptists, or Dunkards, which has just come to a close at the German Baptist church, north of this city, are: Shall members be permitted to carry insurance, either fire or life? Shall the members be denied the use of the telephone? Shall members be permitted the use of automobiles?

The question of insurance aroused an interesting discussion and wide difference of opinion was expressed. No definite decision was reached. The members as a rule have looked with disfavor upon any kind of insurance, believing that the Master's will should be obeyed.

The question of the telephone was discussed, but no action was taken. As a rule the members are opposed to the telephone.

The question of the use of the automobile was not made a formal subject of discussion. Among members it developed there was a strong sentiment against their use. Many of the younger Dunkards are using automobiles and some came to this annual meeting in them. But the committee of twelve, the governing body, did not seem to approve their use. They desire to live as simply as possible.

At the business session Eldorado, O., was chosen as the place of meeting in May of next year. The following officers were elected: Michael Montgomery, Missouri, moderator; Henry Garber, Maryland, reading clerk; E. M. Penfney, Ohio, writing clerk.

HEALTH TALKS BY PROF. FLYNN

The hole in the head with a trumpet on the outside is given altogether too much credit for what it does. As stated in the article on sight it does not hear, of itself, at all. The mind's ear, or the spiritual ear, does all the sound gathering.

To give further proof of this: Some persons have gone to so-called divine healers, and upon receiving their healing again, have given the healer credit for performing a miracle. The facts are these: Hearing is attention. Through attention the child first learns to hear. It is evident, though, that if any portion of the ear actually essential to hearing is destroyed, hearing can neither be developed nor regained. When the healer aroused the patient's attention sufficiently to stimulate the portion of the brain in which the hearing is situated, the nerves that had been lying dormant became active. They performed their proper function once more. The result was the man heard as well as ever.

This, then, is our reason for believing that the healer is not divine. If he could heal by divine power, as he claims he does, it would make no difference if the bones were out of place or injured.

Since the healer can never produce cures in these cases, it is sufficient proof that the healing is not divine, but is done by the patient himself. The only way the healer helps is by giving the patient good, strong suggestions.

If the bones are destroyed or the instrument otherwise defective, the spiritual ear has no way of performing its function, and rarely attempts to do so. There are a few cases on record, however, where the spiritual ear hears without its physical instrument. The story following is one of many authentic cases.

A man standing in a hotel corridor heard his first name called. He turned quickly, and seeing three men in conversation near, asked them what was wanted. The men were strangers to him, so he was somewhat astonished to be addressed so familiarly by them. To his further astonishment, they denied that they had called. Our friend walked away. He had gone but a few steps when again his name was called. "Surely, those men are putting a joke on me," he thought. On again questioning them they again denied having called. The third time this happened. Then our friend, deciding that there was nothing to do but believe the men, made a note of the incident, taking the exact time of it. This happened in Los Angeles. On returning home to San Francisco, he found that his wife had been very ill and had undergone an operation. The nurse said, "If you had heard the pitiful way your wife called your name, you would have realized more than ever how much you are beloved by her." "She called my name?" said he. "What time and what day did the operation occur?" The nurse found the records of the operation, which exactly tallied with the note the man had made for himself.

The hearing sense has nearly as much to do in shaping our lives as has the seeing sense.

The child is fortunate who happens to have parents who realize how the mind can be reached through the sense of hearing. If he is praised in every effort he makes for advancement, if he is continually told that he is to become a great man, what an impression is made on his brain! Each time the words are spoken the impression deepens, until the child at last acts on the suggestions. He does things that cultivate greatness, and by and by, when the opportunity comes to do the great thing, the man is made, as it is called. He has accomplished something that other men seemingly could not do.

Now let us reserve the picture. Let us take the case of a boy who is not so fortunate as the one just mentioned—who was born among criminals.

All he ever hears is, "You dirty brat, you never will amount to anything. You are like your father. He was hanged for murder. You are following in his footsteps." What would naturally become of a boy who heard such things continually? Go to your low dives, almshouses and jails for the answer. God pity him!

It is too true that what we hear makes or breaks us in so many instances. You may say that some found in these places came from good homes. True, but they received the thoughts that made them what they are through one of the five senses, or through the sixth one at least, heredity.

Hearing plays a very important part in our lives when it assists us in gaining health. How does it do this, you ask. One way that the ear accomplishes this result is through music.

Every child should be taught as much about music and sound as time will permit. I understand your protest. It's old and shows your ignorance. All children can get become Paderewskis or Maibas. That is not the idea. Being an artist is vastly different from the fundamental principles of music and tone represent. What does hearing stand for in shaping a musician's career? A great deal. The making of a great pianist or singer is grand, but it does not start to carry out the divine end of hearing.

Every cell in the body is tuned to a certain pitch. A certain vibration will create greater activity in each cell. If the vibration from outside is in harmony with the vibration of the cell, better health in the cell follows. If the vibration is discordant, irritation is the result. That kind of activity in the cell is harmful to health.

How quickly we become irritated at annoying sounds, or how soon we are annoyed by music we love. The right vibrations must be struck to produce this result. For instance, certain kinds of music will assist in the cure of some kinds of insanity.

There are several reasons why we should give the greatest care to the instrument ear aside from the pleasure derived from the act of hearing. To repeat, there are vibrations in the outside world to which every little cell in our bodies correspond. We can tell a deaf person from the expression of his face. The nerves and muscles are out of tune, or have not been developed through the sense of hearing.

When it comes to education we should remember that no one can have a perfect memory who is deaf, as the ear is one of the principal instruments for developing that portion of the brain. A deaf person has not the same command of his feet or hands as has one who has perfect hearing. The vibrations are lower in every cell of his body, and all the other senses are abnormally developed on account of being overtaxed.

Each individual ear has a particular vibration in the outside world which affects it as no other one can. Some ears can distinguish each instrument in a grand orchestra at the same moment. Another can turn a deaf ear to the cannon's roar and at the same time hear the faintest move of a sick child. This is not an unusual occurrence with a mother who through fatigue from long vigilance over her child's bed, falls asleep. Her ear is pitched to catch the slightest sound of the beloved one, but all other noises fall on her ear as if she were deaf.

Side by side with the mechanical eyes which the mind has constructed stands the telephone. On the process of evolution of the physical ear made to hear a few feet only, the mind spent ages, but to make the long-distance ear, the telephone, which enables us to hear thousands of miles, she spent in comparison only a moment.

This wonderfully constructed instrument is one of the most abused of all the senses. Its power for good has never been rightly understood. If it were to be cultivated to its highest possibilities, the following are a few of its wonder-making accomplishments: Disease would in a great measure disappear; the monstrosities would be so reduced in number that they would have to be confined in a "zoo" to keep them from becoming extinct. "What?" you ask, "can taste do all this?" Yes. Every human being will be normal; no more fat ones; no more skinny ones; no more tall ones; no more short ones; no more blue or disgruntled ones; suicide a thing of the past; old age no more under our noses at every turn we take. We will grow old, of course, but we will do it gracefully.

The two ladies who were guests of honor at an informal tea which Mrs. William H. Olds gave this afternoon could not have asked for lovelier surroundings than they had. The honor guests were Mrs. S. E. Johnson, of Waterloo, N. Y., who lived in this city for many years, and Mrs. Charles G. Guild, who is soon to move to Burlington, Ia. The ladies invited to meet them were principally old friends. Over thirty ladies were present during the reception hours and they lent assistance to the hostess in serving in the dining-room and in visiting with others who called for a short time. The decorations of the house were elaborate and though only garden and wild flowers were used, they were displayed with so much fine effect and good taste that the result was most artistic. Against the walls were big branches of dogwood and in front of that were gardeners of snowballs with now and then a tall vase of purple iris to make a contrast. On the mantels stood single candlesticks of glass on which were tied bows of white tulle and in which burned white candles. In the dining-room the same effect was seen with an added touch of color on the table in the way of scarlet geraniums which were massed together in the center. It was altogether a charming party, one in keeping with the beauty in entertaining which Mrs. Olds ever displays and tempered only with the regret that society circles are to lose in Mrs. Guild a member greatly admired and loved.

Mrs. Edward Sigl, of Huffman street, and baby, has returned from a week's visit in Cleveland, O.

Mrs. Eva G. Bates, of 2319 Broadway, went to Michigan yesterday to visit relatives in several places.

Mr. and Mrs. Fred S. Hunting have returned from a five weeks' trip to California, Colorado and Wyoming.

Mrs. A. D. Guild has returned to Indianapolis after a few days' visit with Mrs. C. Q. Guild.

Mrs. Frank Lechler, of 513 Leith street, has as her guest Mrs. George W. Callahan and her daughter, of Knoxville, Tenn.

Mrs. Lillian Underhill, of Thompson avenue, came home on Wednesday from visits in Cincinnati and Richmond.

Mrs. J. Webster Bailey, of Ottawa, Ill., is visiting her daughter, Miss Jessamine Bailey, of West Creighton avenue.

Kenneth McDonald has returned from a week's visit at Notre Dame, where he went to attend the track meet.

The members of the H. E. club have issued invitations to a party they will give on May 22 at the home of Miss Helen Schmidt, of 1813 Hillside avenue.

Invitations have been issued by Mrs. Clara Zollars-Bond to a song recital she will give in Elks' hall on Thursday evening, May 26, at 8 o'clock. Cards are to be presented at the door.

Mr. and Mrs. E. H. Bookwalter, of West Williams street, are going to Indianapolis on Sunday to make a short visit with ex-Mayor and Mrs. C. A. Bookwalter.

Mrs. John Hesse and daughter, Mary John, who have been visiting Mrs. Hesse's sister, Mrs. S. K. Blair, for several days, went to Lima, O., today for a short visit with relatives before they go to New York and sail for Europe for an indefinite stay.

Mr. and Mrs. John Heller will reach the twenty-fifth anniversary of their marriage tomorrow but will not celebrate the day other than to be guests at a family dinner at the home of Mr. Heller's mother, Mrs. Carrie Heller. Mr. and Mrs. Heller were married in this city by Rev. Samuel Wagenhals, of Trinity English Lutheran church.

Miss Helen Kasseus, of East Lewis street, who is a bride-elect of June, was the victim of a pleasant surprise last evening when a number of her friends called and gave her a "shower" of useful and beautiful gifts.

During the evening there was served a most appetizing supper which a sister of Miss Kasseus, Mrs. Christ Frank, had planned. Various games and contests were played and prizes were won by Miss Frances Brase and Miss Elizabeth Woenker.

Others who had part in this merry time were Misses Edna Koehlinger, Elma Koehlinger, Myrtle Imbody, Anna Bruke, Amanda Dickmann, Bertha Gerlach, Carrie Snyder, Anna Gebhart and Katherine Kasseus.

Brooklyn-Tompkinson, Miss Marie Tompkinson and Mr. Stillman Brooklyn were united in marriage on Wednesday evening at 8 o'clock at Trinity Episcopal church by Rev. E. W. Averill. Both bride and groom are residents of this city. A few friends witnessed the ceremony.

Dalton-Gabert. The marriage of Miss Minnie Gabert, daughter of Mr. C. L. Gabert, and Mr. James W. Dalton took place on Tuesday morning at 6:30 o'clock in St. Patrick's church. Rev. J. F. Delaney officiated. Relatives and a few friends were present. The bride wore a pretty gown of white mull and a large white hat and held her prayerbook with flower marker. The wedding breakfast was served at the home of the bridegroom's parents, Mr. and Mrs. J. Dalton, of 419 Dawson street. The bride and groom went east on a trip and will visit Buffalo and Niagara before they return. Mr. and Mrs. Dalton will live at 419 Dawson street.

Mr. Schuyler has just returned from California. He travels for an electrical manufactory in Minneapolis, Minn. Mrs. Schuyler returned yesterday to her home here and will be joined within a few days by Mr. Schuyler for a visit. The bride is a daughter of Mr. and Mrs. R. F. Drukenbrod, of 1215 Monroe street. SMART BLACK AND WHITE HAT.

Trig tailored and smart 'is this white hat in the new rolled back shape, with its upstanding algettes emanating from a cartwheel ornament of black velvet and white beads. The hat, untrimmed otherwise, save for the black velvet facing which finishes the brim on the inner edge, is exceedingly smart. Such hats are worn with tailored linen or tussah suits or with linen costumes and simple blouses.

IN THE THEATERS

THE TEMPLE THEATER.

James B. Donovan and Rena Arnold who are delighting Temple patrons this week, have only recently returned from a most successful tour of Europe. They have been booked to play return engagements everywhere, opening at the Palace theater, London, England, July 14. The secret of their popularity is probably the happiness they manifest in their work and an entire absence of theatricalism. The idea that Donovan, self-styled "The King of Ireland," enters Skinner's hotel and there encounters the proprietor's daughter, personated by Miss Rena Arnold. The ensuing dialogue gives each fine opportunities in repartee. Mr. Donovan's recital of the rules and regulations of the establishment, a string of unusually crisp witticisms pave the way to the finale—a topical song of a sensible order. The act is positively one of the biggest hits of the Temple season.

The Eighteen Boys in Blue in a stirring military sketch head a great bill at the Temple next week. The act is said to be one of the biggest hits of the year. On next week's bill there are thirty-three people, more than are usually seen in $1.50 and $2.00 productions.

THE LYRIC THEATER.

And still they keep a-coming, but it is no wonder, with the excellent show that holds the boards at the Lyric. On account of sickness the McCall Trio were unable to finish the week and were replaced by Maude Scott and company. In a comedy sketch that is a scream from start to finish, Chas. Williams, comedy musical artist continues to please; Alvin Ross, comedy gymnast, and Billy Moore, comedian and dancer, are meeting with the same success that greeted them on their first appearance Monday. On Friday night John Waters will try to accomplish something that has never been done, that is skate on roller skates with female costume; there will also be four other amateurs and a couple of them will be big surprises.

The Patterson-Fletcher Co. are still selling the F. W. H. S. belts for the young men at 50c.

LITTLE GIRL'S DRESS COAT.

Like her mother, little maid needs a coat for dress wear, and for this purpose nothing surpasses mohair. The model illustrated is one of the new two button coats developed in checked mohair, and it is trimmed with red moire satin collar and cuffs.

The hat, a fancy straw model with its rosebuds of satin, is one of the new saucer shapes.

The first car load of flowers and shrubbery for the grand boulevard in Forest Park arrived yesterday. This is an unprecedented occurrence for an undertaking of this kind for Fort Wayne, and is another proof of the grandeur of Louis F. It might be well to remember that through the recent phenomenal sale of lots on Alabama avenue, and the continuous inquiries for lots in this section, Louis F. Curdes is induced to arrange for a special sale on Saturday, May 21, of the lots located in the grove adjoining the Driving Park car line.

These lots are all 44x150 feet and all have sewers and cement sidewalks, and will be sold for $10 down, with $5.00 per month.

LAUD FORT WAYNE AND SAY GOOD-BYE

points of interest. During the evening a smoker with a musical program was given for the Utica men at the Commercial club rooms.

The party made its headquarters at the Anthony hotel, and most of its members were up bright and early today to crowd as much sight-seeing as possible into the few hours remaining before their scheduled departure. The court house, the city hall, the banks and other points of interest in the downtown district were visited today.

Interested in Waterworks. The visitors were especially interested in the Fort Wayne waterworks system, and they took eastward with them a mass of figures, statistics and other information regarding this municipal enterprise. It was explained that in Utica the waterworks system is owned by a private corporation, and there was plainly indicated a very general belief that the city ought to own and control this public utility. Other municipal matters in Fort Wayne were also inquired into searchingly in the quest for information that might be of value. Members of the present party are devoting two weeks of their time and each man is paying his own expenses in the public-spirited effort to make a better Utica.

"Everywhere we have been received most kindly," said B. A. Whiffen, a wholesale meat dealer who was a member of the party. "They have kept us on the jump from morning until night and have left nothing undone in the way of entertainment. We are pretty well tired out and will be glad to reach home next Monday, but we have enjoyed it thoroughly and have learned a lot of things that I think will be helpful."

Personnel of the Party.

Members of the party included J. Seley Cole, secretary Utica Chamber of Commerce; C. Loomis Allen, general manager Oneida Railway company; F. J. Baker, president Utica common council; F. W. Bensberg, capitalist; F. W. Sessions, wholesale milliner; John L. Maher, merchant; R.

Allen Whiffen, wholesale meat dealer; Silbur S. Clark, Utica Transfer company; F. Fred Allen, stone contractor; Dr. C. T. Guilmare; Arthur Hind, manufacturer; Jacob Agne, architect and president of the Utica Herald-Dispatch; Tom W. Johnson, proprietor Backs hotel; Fred A. Cassidy, undertaker; William Schachtel, Utica press; Charles L. Williams, commission merchant; Henry M. Love, attorney; Charles E. Barnard, retired merchant; E. T. Batsford, retired manufacturer; W. L. Brock, Toronto; Fred McLean, dyer.

Leaving Utica May 10 the party has thus far touched at Syracuse, Auburn, Rochester, Lockport and Buffalo, N. Y.; Erie, Pa.; Conaut, Ash-tabula, Cleveland, Elyria, Norwalk, Shelby, Mansfield, Bucyrus, Marion, Columbus, Dayton and Cincinnati in Ohio; Louisville, Ky., and Richmond, Indianapolis, Noblesville, Tipton, Kokomo, Peru, Wabash, Huntington and Fort Wayne, in this state. Cities yet to be visited when the special car left this city were Van Wert, Lima, Findlay, Bowling Green, Toledo, Detroit, Fremont and Lorain.

J. R. Keenan is at Elkhart in the interest of the Wayne Auto Axle company.

Within a week it is expected that the factory of the new Fort Wayne Motor company, in the eastern part of the city, will be placed in operation.

BALLOONISTS FIND NO TRACE OF THE COMET'S TAIL

Savants Who Ascended at St. Louis Report Seeing No Phenomena.

St. Louis, May 19.—Fragrant with mundane excitement but not eventful astronomically, the balloon expedition to explore the tail of Halley's comet, which began here last night at 6:35 o'clock, ended near Hillview, Greene county, Illinois, at 1:20 o'clock. The aerostat traveled sixty-five miles.

Prof. George O. James, of Washington university, who made the trip with John Berry, pilot, and Andrew Drew, a newspaper man, had with him an aeroplane, an aneroid barometer, a thermometer and a telescope. The balloon rose in a cloudless sky. As only seventeen bags of ballast were taken up a landing was made at Carsonsville, St. Louis county, at 7:15. Supper was taken at a farm house and fifty children were taken in a short flight "to see the comet." The balloon was held captive by the drag rope.

Voyage Is Resumed.
The aerial voyage was resumed at 8:45 and all ballast except eight bags had to be sacrificed. Unknown to the pilot the balloon changed its course from west to north.

Just as the balloon was about to land a freight train began to move directly under the balloon. The balloon drag rope barely missed being caught by the cabooses of the train. The landing was made in a wheat field. Two streams were waded by the three men who were pushing the balloon toward a farm house. It was 2 o'clock this morning before the farm house was reached and the gas bag deflated. Prof. James said he did not see any traces of the comet's tail, although he often scanned the heavens with his telescope. The balloon at no time reached a very high altitude.

Noticed No Phenomena.
"I noticed no phenomena which I could confidently attribute to the effect of the passing of the comet's tail, in which we rode for two hours," said Prof. James.

"If the earth passed through the comet's tail, the voyage proved there is no danger, even in the upper air strata, from the whisking of a comet's tail across the earth."

"It confirmed the scientific opinion as to the vacuum-like tenacity of the comet's constituency. It proved that no perceptible quantity, if any, of the comet's gases was able to penetrate the earth's atmosphere."

STEAMER SINKS; 150 RESCUED.

Coolness of Crew in Excursion Boat Panio Saves All.

Kansas City, Mo., May 19.—Panicked on a sinking steamer, 150 passengers, men, women and children, fought to escape from the Uncle Sam when it capsized in the Missouri river near here yesterday afternoon. The coolness of the crew prevented loss of life. No one was injured.

The accident happened in mid stream where the river is wide and deep. The steamer was attempting to turn round and while backing down the river with the rapid current, struck a sandbar, crushing in the right side of the boat.

The steamer filled quickly and men and women began to scream "It is sinking! It is sinking!"

Instantly the officers and crew found themselves in the midst of struggling humanity.

The boat was headed for the shore, but before arriving it sank on one side, submerging half the deck. A few persons jumped overboard, but as the water was shallow, they were rescued without difficulty. Officers of the government steamer Missouri rushed their boat to the rescue.

The crew of the excursion boat found it impossible to make use of the life boats, but in less than ten minutes after the steamer sank every person who had been on it was ashore.

Officers of the Uncle Sam feared the boilers would explode before the passengers were landed, but the rapid filling of the hull with water cooled the boilers and probably prevented an explosion.

The boat was 160 feet long and 22 feet beam. The loss is estimated at $25,000.

POSTMAN IN HERO ROLE.

Rescues Child from Well With Hook in His Mouth.

Bloomington, Ind., May 19.—A long clothes line pole with a hook on the end was used by Mail Carrier Thomas Kilpatrick last evening in rescuing Fred Hays, 3-year-old son of William R. Hays, a cabman, from a cistern in which he had accidentally fallen.

The lid on the cistern had been left off when the child stepped into the opening. His plunge into eight feet of water was witnessed by Mrs. Hays, who immediately fainted. Kilpatrick was passing the house on his route and seeing that the cistern opening was far too small to admit his body he grabbed the pole.

Twice he raised the child's body almost to the top of the cistern when the hold slipped and the little fellow dropped back into the water. The third time he frantically made a supreme effort to catch the boy, when the hook fastened itself in the roof of the child's mouth. In this manner he was raised out of the cistern bleeding and with his mouth terribly lacerated. A physician, after working an hour with the boy, said he would recover.

THOUSANDS OUT BUT COMET'S SHOW FIZZLED

Fort Wayne Folk Waited for Sky Spectacle That Never Came.

Thousands of Fort Wayne people last night turned out and awaited with expectant interest the promised celestial spectacle as Mother Earth passed through the tail of Halley's comet, but the show never materialized. It was a glorious night, with moon and stars working at high voltage to supply the brilliant illumination, but neither darting meteoric cyanogen gases, star showers nor calamity came to mark the interval for which the earth had waited for seventy-five years. Fear which had seized a goodly portion of the human family was dispelled and life seems worth living once more.

Bought Best Viewpoints.
Mr. Halley's comet had been well advertised, and it drew a capacity audience. Fort Wayne's streets were lined with people who spent several hours in a close survey of the skies for the promised show, but there was absolutely no unusual manifestation visible.

Hundreds of Fort Wayne people sought elevated spots—the roofs of tall buildings, the summit of the reservoir and other high points where the view was unobstructed to await the expected phenomena, but it never came. For two hours from 8:37 p. m. when the earth was supposed to be sailing through the comet's caudal appendage, the watch was especially vigilant, but the star-gazing yielded no results aside from some stiff necks, and in order to save the local occasion from being an absolute fizzle, there were occasional enthusiasts who shot skyrockets in the effort to give the watchers some return for their interest.

Was It Miscalculation?
Early dispatches to The Sentinel today from western observatories indicated that perhaps there had been a miscalculation, and that the swish of the comet's tail was in reality to come today, but meanwhile the fearsome ones who would have exhibited no surprise at seeing the human family swept off the earth last night have settled back into complacency and are breathing easier once more.

That there was apprehension in some quarters was plainly evident, and it is declared that one man employed at the rolling mill yesterday withdrew his savings of $250 from the bank with the announcement that he proposed to spend it and have a good time before a celestial wanderer cast its blight upon the human family. Practical jokers early today were using the telephones to call up friends and urge them to "come out of the cellar." The comet's passing may have fallen from a spectacular point of view, but it certainly maintained a tight grip on local interest as it did so, and the "comet party" had come to be the correct social diversion.

WILKEN DRAWS FINE OF REGULATION CALIBER

Druggist Wanted Charge Changed So It Would be Cheaper.

Druggist John H. Wilken, the Spry Run avenue druggist, who has been tiffing the Sunday lid, who sold Lieutenant Elenbut and Baliff Hall a bottle of whiskey last Sunday without a prescription, drew a fine of the regulation caliber in the city court today, where he got $50 and costs.

Through Attorney Frank Emrick he endeavored to have the charge changed so that the fine would be smaller, but Judge Mungovan would not stand for it and Deputy Prosecutor Harry Hilgeman insisted that the original charge stand and it went through.

The Other Cases.
Harry G. Gordon and William Roach were held on charges of public intoxication for a week under bonds of $100. Roach is a deaf mute who was picked up Wednesday and he had three rings on him. The police think he and Gordon, also taken Wednesday with a lot of jewelry in his possession, are crooks.

Ed Miller, who has been in court a number of times and who is continually "knocking" the police, drew $3 and costs for profanity.

Mabel Black and John Morgan were fined $5 and costs for drunkenness and Andrew Moninger got $1 and costs.

Susie Boger, who wrote for her old mother to come here from Danville, Ill., several weeks ago and failed to meet her, was in for loitering and was fined $5 and costs. The police say she is a drug fiend and not responsible.

Ed Sheeler, who came here from Delphos to look for a job, took one drink, he said, and went down and out. His case was continued until Friday.

Claude Kelly, arrested on an assault and battery charge growing out of a neighborhood quarrel on Holman street, was acquitted.

Gone Is the Strawberry Shortcake 'Like Our Mother Used to Make'

Weird Concoctions of Gum Arabic, Gypsum, Etc., a Poor Imitation—Real Thing a Delight—Weary Man Wanders About New York Seeking Some to Devour and Finds It Not.

New York, May 19.—Better far than they were cast into the sea, these tons of luscious strawberries which are being buried in arid wastes of putative shortcake. The season for them will soon wane, and yet they are ruthlessly immolated by unskillful builders of monstrosities of "sponge," a generation that knows not the old-fashioned brand which was a balm of solace and a great joy. It were sacrilege to speak of it were it not to point out that there remain here and there centers of enlightenment where the noble craft of making it still survives. Yet to roam Broadway from the pretentious Palais des Homards to the Cafe des Enfants, from haricot to beans, there seems to be none who will serve that delight of a bygone age.

Here you are at the house of the flaming front and you have spoken. It is written:

"Old Fash. Strawberry, 1 por." "Ah, eet ees ze cake Americaine," says the servant. "Eet is so zat monsieur desire. It shall be made een ze mode, certainement."

What he says to the foreman of the pastry works down stairs nobody knows. There is a rattling of chains, lids come off of canisters, thin yellow wedges are dropped about, a human spider begins to weave a treacherous web of gum arabic, gypsum, glucose and liquid. He forces the mixture into a paper cone with a bicycle pump, bestows two bogged strawberries and a fragment of angelica and a dash of Angostura bitters upon the yellow segments and rears a mocking tower of Babel.

Wedges it Together.

Where it staggers he wedges it fast with skewers and calls for another strawberry to hide the structural defect. Over and above the web of white is woven until the confection beneath is concealed. To a plate it goes and then a few specks of sauce Melba are sprinkled on the top. Freeze and serve on grape leaves and charge fifty cents extra for a portion of cream.

The pagoda of misery is complete. You look, sigh, wreck the foundation with your fork, pay the check and go out into the gathering gloom.

Here, then, is a place where men subsist on simpler fare and it may be that here one may obtain the real old fashioned sort. You ask for it.

"I get you," answers the retired iron puddler who serves. "Kind mother used to make, eh?"

"One straw for homestead Rube," he whispers into the wicket.

Again a mysterious conference and he emerges with two bits of yellow pulp, on the lower one of which is a company of strawberries in the Atlas act, while on top is another consignment arranged as though they had been dropped there from a shot tower.

More Than Your Share.

Your neighbor is counting the berries on both lids.

"You have fourteen on yours," he says enviously. "They only gave me eleven."

No, it is not the kind that mother used to make. You are overcome with nostalgia. One bite of the yielding ammonia laden sponge and the wilted berry lurks within it and you are again in the street. Life is sad. It is full of the dank seaweeds of bitterness. There is no old fashioned strawberry shortcake. The world has no oversoul.

But why give way to useless pining? There is still a chance to know of sweetness and light, for here is the magic New England recipe for real old fashioned strawberry shortcake. The basis of all true shortcake must be more or less neutral so that there may be brought out the delicate flavor of the fruit. It is a crime to use sponge cake or any other flavored preparation.

One of the most delectable combinations known is bread and butter, one large inelegant slice to be eaten intermittently with sound, ripe strawberries, over which has been sprinkled a little powdered sugar. Substitute biscuit for bread and you have something still better; have a large biscuit made and the old fashioned strawberry shortcake is on the way.

The shortcake may be constructed without filling and the berries stowed on the upper and nether consignments of biscuit after being sprinkled with sugar, but this old New England recipe provides for an egg filling which accentuates the natural flavor of the fruit. The use of cream on strawberry shortcake has digestive perils, besides masking the taste of the berry. The idea is to build up around the raw ripe fruit and to retain its flavor without sophistication.

How it is Made.

Here are the ingredients: Two cups of flour, two teaspoonfuls of baking powder, one-half teaspoonful of salt, one large tablespoonful of butter and one large tablespoonful of lard.

Mix flour, baking powder and salt with the butter and the lard, moisten with milk and mould into one large loaf or biscuit. The above amount will provide fair sized portions for eight persons. The filling consists of one box of strawberries, the whites of two eggs and three cups of powdered sugar.

Save out about twenty of the largest and finest berries for the top. Mash one-half of the balance and mix them with the whites of eggs, which already have been beaten with one cup of sugar. Beat the fruit and whites of eggs mixture together, adding the balance of the sugar until the filling is very stiff and will stand alone. This requires some patience, but the result will repay the trouble. Then split the biscuit in half after it is cold.

Cover the lower half with a layer of filling and then the berries, which in turn are covered with filling. Put on the top half of the biscuit, cover it with filling and decorate with the large berries which were reserved for that purpose.

There are other recipes which have been in use, as may be seen in the cook books, but they generally contain some direction about serving with cream, which is looked upon in many directions as a gastronomic heresy.

Mr. Louis Sherry, the well known restaurateur of this city, has bestowed much thought and study on how to prevent the strawberry from being maltreated.

"Shortcake is not served any more at the high class restaurants," he said yesterday, "for the objection has been made that in its original form it caused indigestion. It is really a biscuit with strawberries, and in order to produce it some lard must be used. The so-called shortcakes which are found now in many restaurants are merely sponge cake layers on which the strawberries are laid. I do not know that any of the old fashioned variety can be obtained in New York."

"The use of cream with strawberries and other shortcake is to be avoided, for it produces combinations which impair the digestion and cause distress. The strawberry is a fruit much abused. It should never be served in such a way that its flavor is impaired or disguised."

"Several years ago I introduced 'Strawberries Polonaise,' which consists simply of sound ripe berries over which a little lemon juice has been placed, and they are then sweetened with powdered sugar. There forms a thin syrup of delicious flavor in which the natural taste of the strawberry is enhanced. The acids of the strawberries and the lemon combine in such an agreeable way that the dish may be eaten without affecting the most delicate digestion."

Strawberries also may be served in tarts, but here the objection is again raised that the pastry might prove disturbing. As to that I often have doubts, for in France and England pastries are constantly eaten by all classes and indigestion is a rare ailment. I am inclined to think that in this country the drinking oficed water has more to do with causing that American disease than any other factor.

Investigation made through the hotel district at the moment of going to press revealed no visible supply of real old fashioned shortcake.

A CHEMIST'S OPINION ON SKIN DISEASES.

Meyer Bros. Co., the chemists and druggists, say that in all their scientific and business experience they have never found any remedy so successful as ZEMO for the treatment of Eczema, Itching Skin Diseases, Dandruff, Pimples, Blackheads and all diseases of the skin and scalp. They say that not only do its curative qualities make it popular, but also the fact that it is a clean, liquid remedy for external use. A wonderful improvement over the old greasy salves and ointments which are not only unpleasant to use but do not destroy the germ life that causes the disease. ZEMO draws the germs to the surface and destroys them, leaving the skin clear and healthy. Can be used freely on infants. Meyer Bros. Co. will gladly supply those who call with a free sample bottle of ZEMO and a booklet which explains in simple language all about Skin Diseases and how to cure yourself at home with ZEMO.

"Chantecler"

The literary and dramatic sensation of the decade.
Exclusive publication in Hampton's Magazine

M. Edmond Rostand—author of "Cyrano de Bergerac," "L'Aiglon," etc.—has produced in "Chantecler" the greatest satiric play of the age—the greatest literary sensation.

People of culture all over the world are eagerly awaiting its publication. It is being discussed daily in schools, literary circles, theatrical circles, fashion circles—everywhere. "Chantecler" is distinctly and pre-eminently the rage.

500,000 copies of the French book have already been sold and the demand increases. The success of the play is tremendous, not only in Paris but throughout all France, where it is being presented by several companies. M. Rostand's royalties are estimated at 2,500,000 francs—and this sum will probably increase.

Surely, you will not regard us as extravagant when we say that you must read "Chantecler."

The sarcastic and amusing, pathetic and kindly portrayal of human emotions and human characteristics through the mouths of fowls will afford you line after line of exquisite delight and relish. The character of the Cock is magnificent. Though an egotist he is broadminded, tender-hearted, wholly lovable—as remarkable and striking a hero as literature has seen in centuries. The Hen Pheasant is a New Woman—and very charming. The Black Bird, the Watch Dog, the Guinea Hen, the Peacock—every character is fascinating.

M. Rostand has chosen HAMPTON'S MAGAZINE as the medium through which to present "Chantecler" to the English-reading world. The translation is by Miss Gertrude Hall, whose excellent rendition of "Cyrano de Bergerac" met with M. Rostand's keen approval. Each installment will be profusely illustrated in colors.

M. Rostand has protected his work with the most stringent of copyrights; you will not be able to read the English version of the play anywhere except in HAMPTON'S MAGAZINE.

The first installment appears in HAMPTON'S MAGAZINE for June. Now on sale. Price 15 cents.

If your newsdealer is sold out, send fifty cents for the four numbers—June, July, August and September—containing "Chantecler" complete.

Address: HAMPTON'S MAGAZINE, 66 WEST 35TH STREET, NEW YORK.

The Evening Post, New York, says: "The publishers of HAMPTON'S have undoubtedly shown enterprise in capturing the two biggest stories of the year in Peary's North Pole and Rostand's Drama."

Think of Last Summer—

You can remember days when the heat inside your kitchen was so great you could hardly bear it. With the right stove you would have made a better hostess. Save your health. Don't put up with the drudgery of a coal range. You can have a clean, cool, pleasant kitchen. The does away with all drudgery of cooking. Why should you be a slave to a coal range when you can have an Oil Cook-Stove that is cheaper than coal, cleaner than coal, doesn't "smell," doesn't smoke, lights instantly, can be put out instantly, leaves no ashes, and doesn't heat the kitchen. With one of these stoves you can boil, bake or roast the most elaborate dinner. You can change from a slow to a quick fire, or the other way about, by simply turning a wick. Apply a match, and instantly the heat from an intense blue flame shoots upward through the turquoise-blue enamel chimneys to the bottom of pot, kettle or oven—but nowhere else. The stove has every convenience that can be thought of: Cabinet Top with shelf for keeping food and dishes hot, drop shelves to hold coffee or teapots, towel rack; in fact every convenience possible.

The nickel finish, with the bright blue of the chimneys, makes the stove ornamental and attractive.

A CORRECTION.

We feel it is our duty in justice to the Hely Grocery to call your attention to a typographical error that appeared in the advertisement for this store in our paper of yesterday. In the ad. of the Hely Grocery, we quoted a price of $1.30 per large sack for New Haven flour, which the ad. quoted $1.00 per sack, but due to an error on our part, the price was wrongly inserted. This mistake undoubtedly occasioned quite a little inconvenience on the part of the Hely Grocery and the public. We regret extremely that this error was made and assure you that it was our fault and not a misleading statement on the part of the Hely Grocery.
